wearing red stoles on their black academic gowns and carrying lighted tapers, will participate in the candlelight procession which will open the program. As the students sing a Latin chant from the Christmas Mass they will take their places on the stage to form a choral group.

Present Choral Suite

"A Ceremony of Carols," a suite of musical pieces composed by Benjamin Britten in 1942, will form the framework of the evening's presentation. Interspersed with the choral numbers will be four tableaus.

The first tableau will present Kathy Garner as the Blessed Virgin. Shepherds in the second tableau will be Maurita Brady, Marjorie Schlink, Mary Jo Burke, Joan Wagner and Sue Turnis.

Kathleen Sullivan will be the Madonna in the third tableau and Linde O'Loan will be St. Joseph.

The final tableau will show Maria Hofmann as Our Lady of Peace. Mark Horgan, son of Mr. Robert Horgan of the history department, will be the Christ Child. Following this scene the Clarke choral will sing the St. Francis Prayer for Peace.

The choral group will open the program with "Welcome, Yule," a text crying welcome to Christmas and the new year. This will be followed by "There Is No Rose," sung by the college glee club.

Marilyn Fifield, senior contralto, will sing a solo number, "That Young Child." Rita Mootz, senior mezzosoprano, will be the solo voice in the next selection, "Bululalow," a cradle song to be presented by the Glee club.

The Glee club will continue with "As Dew in April," and all students will again unite in singing "This Little Babe," a composition based on the poem by Robert Southwell. Holy Night; All Is Calm, All Is...

Can we pause for just a moment? Let's stop the Christmas carol; stop, too, the pressing crowds in the department stores and Christmas and commercialism is the From all indications thus far, there is the mad rush about us. There. Now in the silence let us take time to think.

Is there any holiday more memorable than Christmas? Or more is of the belief, however, that it is en- saving mood. This year, however, the festive? We greet relatives and friends; we exchange presents; we tirely up to the indecorate trees and tell the kids about Santa Claus. It's our celebration and we've got a right to it.

But it's more than just a season of gaiety. Over 1900 years harm if we do not ago a star shone with intense light over an old shed in Bethlehem.

It told the world that a virgin had given birth to a Son. That Son was the cause of our redemption.

Christmas, then, belongs to Christ. We couldn't give a birthday party without the guest of honor. It would be pointless. Therefore we could hardly celebrate Noel without Christ, for it is His birthday.

Love and joy are synonymous with the Christmas season. When we have achieved these through Christ, we can go on with our frantic last-minute shopping, with tree decorating, with numerous other plans. We can begin again the Christmas carol and continue it with bursting hearts: "Silent night. holy night. All is calm, all is bright."

The father reads the Gospel of St. Luke until the door opens and the Child appears with a woman dressed in a white, long dress and white veil. She gives a short comment on the children's conduct during the last year and gives advice for the new year. She leaves a huge sack with numerous packages and then disappears while the children are singing, "Silent Night, Holy Night . . ."

The formal part of Christmas eve is then over and everyone tries to find out of the sack what is destined for him. Time passes fast while the new things are admired and tested and by the first strike of the bell the whole family gets ready for midnight Mass.

Michaeline Fu, senior from Formosa, says: The biggest difference between a Chinese Christmas and an American Christmas is that in China we do not get a long vacation from school. Only Christmas day is a holiday, but we get a month's vacation around the Chinese new year in February.

The Christmas celebration in Formosa begins at 8 o'clock on Christmas eve when everyone gathers at the diocesan church. Before the midnight Mass there is a play or a movie. Everyone brings a gift and we have a grab-bag. We also receive small gifts from the archbishop and sometimes from the cardinal. One Christmas we got presents from the Pope!

After the midnight Mass we have refreshments and everyone goes home about 3 o'clock.

Clarke Technicians Win Second Game In City Tourney

In a hard-fought, fast moving contest, the Meadow Gold Technicians came from behind in the last few minutes of play to down Bel Du Inn 32-29 Wednesday night. This was their second game and second win in the city league volleyball tourney.

The Technicians failed to respond to the swift hits and hard spikes of their opponents during the first 15 minutes of play. They trailed 22-14 at the half.

Returning to the floor for the second period, they did not close the gap until the last four minutes of play. With two minutes to go, the Technicians tied the score and then went ahead to take the game.

Players included captain Janice Benita Kane, Mary Ann Kane, Virginia Holmberg, Eloise Kaufmann

Born deaf, Kathy began special her stamp collection. She treasures study at the Bell school in Chicago over a thousand rare specimens.

Kathy is attending Clarke on the recommendation of a friend of her mother's. Practically a pioneer in her field, she is one of the few deaf people who have attempted to attend a regular college. Biology is her major and after graduation she plans to be a medical technician.

Likes College

Clarke is wonderful, Kathy thinks. "I have found it extremely easy to get acquainted with the girls," she remarked, and since I have never had the privilege of attending a Catholic school it is most gratifying to learn Christian ethics and the Catholic on everyday problems and living."

One of the biggest thrills of her life, Kathy states, occurred when she was maid of honor at her sister Margaret's wedding on Oct. 23. Kathy, whose sharp eyes compensate for her hearing handicap, received the traditional "razzing" when she caught the bride's bouquet.

Sing Her Praise

Kathy Garner has won the praise and admiration of her roommates for her congeniality. Acquaintances claim that she has a special ability to make friends easily. She receives help from all her dorm mates and especially from Carol Dunham who goes over the class notes with her.

Learning to speak without being able to hear has always been Kathy's biggest problem. But she is gradually overcoming this difficulty. Here at Clarke she is taking a special course in speech therapy from Sister Mary Xavier, BVM, chairman of the drama department. Mary Dalton, senior drama major, supervises her daily practice periods.
